Weather write-up

A weather widget is essential for any planning to be effective so I think that it is the best fit for an additional widget.

The first step is to declare the variables we are going to use in the widget. Next I get the location data of the user that is latitude and longitude which I use to fetch the weather data from open weather API. Once I have fetched the data I can now display it to the user on the widget.